The National Rural Health Association is a national nonprofit and nonpartisan membership organization with more than 21,000 members. NRHA membership consists of a diverse group of individuals and organizations, all of whom share the goal of improving rural health. NRHA strives to improve the health of the 60 million who call rural America home. Our mission is to provide leadership on rural health issues through advocacy, communications, education and research.

WE FIGHT FOR ACCESS TO CARE

Rural populations are per capita older, sicker, and poorer than their urban counterparts. Continued payment cuts have devastated the financial viability of rural practices, disrupted rural economies, and eroded availability of care. Medical deserts are appearing across rural America, leaving many without timely access to care.

WE FIGHT FOR A ROBUST RURAL WORKFORCE

Rural areas struggle to recruit and retain an adequate health care workforce. Seventy-seven percent of rural counties are Health Professional Shortage Areas, and nine percent have no physicians at all. With far fewer physicians per capita, the maldistribution of health care providers between rural and urban areas results in unequal access to care and negatively impacts rural health.

WE FIGHT FOR A STRONG RURAL SAFETY NET

The federal investment in rural health programs is a small portion of federal health care spending, but it is critical to rural Americans. These safety net programs expand access to health care, improve health outcomes, and increase the quality and efficiency of health care delivery in rural America.

Approximately 10 million people ages 65 and older live in rural America. A quarter of older Americans live in a small town or other rural communities.

According to the CDC, rural Americans are more likely to die of the five leading causes of death (heart disease, cancer, stroke, and chronic lower respiratory disease). Nineteen percent of rural Americans, including 25% of rural children, are living in poverty. Rural economies are still struggling to recover from the Great Recession.

Suicide rates have increased 33% since 1999. Rural suicide rates are almost twice as high as urban, and they are accelerating at a quicker rate. Rural mothers have a 9% higher chance of experiencing 'severe maternal morbidity and mortality.'

Over three-fourths of rural counties are primary care Health Professional Shortage Areas (HPSAs). While 20% of the population lives in rural America, only 9% of physicians practice in rural communities.

Over 120 rural hospitals have closed since 2010, and the latest research suggests that 453 are currently vulnerable to closure. Rural hospitals provide access to care, as well as jobs and other economic opportunities; these hospitals are often one of the largest employers in a rural community.

In an emergency, rural patients travel twice as far as urban residents to the closest hospital. As a result, 60% of trauma deaths occur in rural America, even though only 20% of Americans live in rural areas.

A new study published by the National Bureau of Economic Research showed that rural hospital closures increased inpatient mortality by 5.9%, while urban closures had no impact.

Stop multiple Medicare cuts to rural providers.
