2019 WONCA World Rural Health Conference letter of invitation

On behalf of the National Rural Health Association, I am pleased to invite to attend the 16th WONCA World Rural Health Conference Oct. 12-15, 2019, in Albuquerque, N.M., a collaboration between WONCA, NRHA and the University of New Mexico Health Sciences Center.

Founded in 1972, WONCA, the World Organization of Family Doctors, is an international organization committed to improving quality of life in rural communities around the globe and providing a forum for exchange of knowledge.

This conference brings together providers, educators, and researchers who share the common goal of improving health care for rural populations worldwide. Attendees will expand their knowledge of rural health best practices and engage with top rural health experts from across the globe.

NRHA and the UNM Health Sciences Center are pleased that _____ is considering attending this annual international event, which will be held in the U.S. for the first time in eight years. Their attendance demonstrates a commitment to enhancing expertise in family medicine and the development of primary care in their community. During _____'s stay, they will be responsible for all expenses incurred.

Visit our event website or contact registration@nrharural.org for more details. We look forward to seeing _____ at the World Rural Health Conference Oct. 12-15 in the Land of Enchantment.

Sincerely,

Brock Slabach
Senior vice president for member services
National Rural Health Association

NRHA is a nonprofit organization working to improve the health and wellbeing of rural Americans and providing leadership on rural health issues through advocacy, communications, education, and research. NRHA's membership is made up of more than 21,000 diverse individuals and organizations, all of whom share the common bond of an interest in rural health.
